Coming Home To Brewster series by Roxanne Henke

Brewster, North Dakota. Middle America, USA. The kind of town where everybody knows your name. Where everybody know what everyone else is doing...or thinking of doing. A place where neighbors run cookies over with the latest gossip. Where the waitress at the café is your next-door neighbor. Nine-man football. A twenty-bed hospital. A grocery store that offers home deliver on Thursday. All these thing can be found in Brewster.

What else can be found there. People with hopes and dreams. People in love and people with broken hearts. Friends and foes. Families and faith. When you get to know the people of Brester, you'll find it isn't all that different from where you live. Welcome to Brewster...it's a good place to call home.

- After Anne: Everyone wants a friend like Anne Abbot...Every woman needs a friend like Libby Mardsen.
- Finding Ruth: Here is a wonderful story about the God of second chances...when our dreams have led us down a dead-end street.
- Becoming Olivia: One woman's fight to keep her life on track...her fight to find a measure of joy... and the impact her struggle has on one lonely psychiatrist.
- Always Jan: Shows the surprising ways God works to turn our well-planned lives into something so much better than we imagined for ourselves.
- With Love Libby: A powerful story about following dreams...and learning that God often dreams bigger (and better) than we do.

The following is a note the author has in the back of one of her books. It will give you an insight into her writings and what is behind each book. "No matter where God has placed us, no matter what our circumstances, or no matter the messes we've made in our lives, He's given us gifts and work to do. We need to seek His prupose and His will for our lives. No matter what God has called us to do..big or small, it's never too late. Everything is for His glory. Are you doing the work He's called you to do?"
